South East of Tuscany is the land locked region of Umbria. A rugged and wild place, with a long history of wine farming. The whites are often in the fresh, crisp spectrum but for us it is the reds which are most exciting, and down here they have a variety which is simply unlike any other, Sagrantino. This indigenous variety is a creator of inky black, powerful, intensely tannic wines. In a sense it might appear too much for the modern world, the antithesis of the crowd pleaser, this is a wine that is for those who want an outlier and something that stands out from the masses.

Scacciadiavoli Rosso, Montefalco DOC 2022

ISC003 AZIENDA AGRARIA SCACCIADIIVOLI UMBRIA, ITALY

PRODUCTION

Predominantly Sangiovese with a dash of powerful Sagrantino and plummy Merlot in the blend.

TASTING NOTE

Tons of red berry fruit and a refreshing finish. Still a fair whack of tannin but nicely harmonised, it's only going to taste better with food.

FOOD MATCH

You can have it with whatever you fancy but we reckon something wholesome with a tomato-based sauce might be a winner, something Italian, weird right?
